Toowoomba CBD cleanup continues; TRC assessing damage

Thursday, 13 January 2011 14:03

Toowoomba Region Mayor Peter Taylor has called on State and Federal governments for financial support to underpin the region's long-term recovery. Mayor Taylor and Strategic Services portfolio leader Cr Noel Strothfeld yesterday (Wednesday, January 12) toured Toowoomba CBD streets and businesses most affected in Monday's flash flood. Scores of Toowoomba CBD business owners, council workers, state emergency agencies and volunteers are busily making the most of a break in the weather to drag out debris and clean premises.

Opportunity for QFRS assistance

Thursday, 13 January 2011 12:34

Toowoomba Regional Council is advising that the Queensland Fire and Rescue Service (QFRS) is providing, on request, assistance to residents by washing out their homes or commercial properties.

QFRS officers will unfortunately be unable to help move furniture, but will be able to hose out affected properties to remove mud and debris.

If you require assistance, once furniture has been removed, please contact the QFRS on 1300 655 833.

Residents urged to drop storm or flood-damaged items at landfill sites

Thursday, 13 January 2011 12:28

Residents who have storm or flood damaged materials in need of disposal are urged to take them to council's landfill sites.

Toowoomba Regional Council is appealing to residents to not simply dump their storm damaged goods on the footpath as these can potentially impede traffic and pedestrian access or block drains if further heavy rain occurs.

Toowoomba CBD cleanup continues; TRC assessing damage

Thursday, 13 January 2011 14:03

Toowoomba Region Mayor Peter Taylor has called on State and Federal governments for financial support to underpin the region's long-term recovery.

Mayor Taylor and Strategic Services portfolio leader Cr Noel Strohnfeld yesterday (Wednesday, January 12) toured Toowoomba CBD streets and businesses most affected in Monday's flash flood.

Scores of Toowoomba CBD business owners, council workers, state emergency agencies and volunteers are busily making the most of a break in the weather to drag out debris and clean premises.

Opportunity for QFRS assistance

Thursday, 13 January 2011 12:34

Toowoomba Regional Council is advising that the Queensland Fire and Rescue Service (QFRS) is providing, on request, assistance to residents by washing out their homes or commercial properties.

QFRS officers will unfortunately be unable to help move furniture, but will be able to hose out affected properties to remove mud and debris.

If you require assistance, once furniture has been removed, please contact the QFRS on 1300 655 833.

Residents urged to drop storm or flood-damaged items at landfill sites

Thursday, 13 January 2011 12:28

Residents who have storm or flood damaged materials in need of disposal are urged to take them to council's landfill sites.

Toowoomba Regional Council is appealing to residents to not simply dump their storm damaged goods on the footpath as these can potentially impede traffic and pedestrian access or block drains if further heavy rain occurs.

Warning to stay away from TRC dams

Thursday, 13 January 2011 10:23

Toowoomba Regional Council mayor Peter Taylor has implored members of the public to keep away from TRC dams (Cressbrook, Cooly and Perseverance) during the current flood crisis.

Cr Taylor said it was irresponsible for residents and sightseers to be heading to the facilities as it created an issue of personal safety as well as clogging already hectic roadways.
